

Many Columbia City Businesses Open & Looking for Customers.

You and your business are the heart, soul and lifeblood of our Columbia City community. As we design a new way to stay afloat and connected while businesses have closed, we at the CCBA want to share the following:

We've compiled a list of businesses open in some manner. Other businesses, like Andaluz and Retroactive Kids, will be growing their online offering so look local before going to Amazon. The situation could change at any time, so you might want to call first.

And of course, there are many resources coming online for loans, grants and government support. We've listed some of the most relevant.

We on the CCBA leadership team continue to stay in touch via Zoom to determine how to best support our beloved community. Please check in with us and let us know how you are, and continue checking in with each other. While we are socially distant, we are emotionally connected.

We're here for you. We'll revitalize our business community together!
